

Sanlorenzo To Participate at Limassol Boat Show 2022 For the First Time

October 10, 2022

565

Yacht Harbour > Yacht News > Sanlorenzo To Participate at Limassol Boat Show 2022 For the First Time

Facebook

Twitter

Google+

Sanlorenzo is participating this year for the first time in the Limassol Boat Show, which will be held in Limassol Marina from 14 to 16 October 2022. The seventh edition of the show promises to bring together visitors and exhibitors from all over the world.

Sanlorenzo, represented by its dealer Sanlorenzo Cyprus, will be at the show with two distinctive models from its yacht fleet, the asymmetrical SL102A and the semi-displacement navetta SD96.

SL102A

For the shipyard SL102A became the first ever asymmetrical motor yacht. The original idea was possessed by car designer Chris Bangle; the exterior lines come from Bernardo Zucon. With the SL102A, Sanlorenzo has rethought the layout of a yacht to allow greater usability of the interior spaces and a better connection with the exterior.

SD96

The naval architecture of the SD96 stems from Philippe Briand's design, integrated with Sanlorenzo's engineering experience. The interiors revolve around the concepts of flexibility and modularity that allow the boat to evolve and adapt continuously to the needs of those who inhabit it.

Sanlorenzo was founded in 1985 in Viareggio by yacht builder Giovanni Jannetti. In 2005, Massimo Perrotti became the majority shareholder in the shipyard. Sanlorenzo builds yachts ranging from 28.60 to 62 meters in length.

Credits: Thomas Pagani, Sanlorenzo